MARRIAGE MINUTE - This Sunday, St. Paul reminds us that the Gospel he preached was of divine origin. As it was true for Paul 2000 years ago, it is true for the Church today. Nowhere is this more relevant than in the current cultural debate about marriage and human sexuality. While there is much misunderstanding and misinformation over what we believe as Catholics, an important point is that we do not have the power to change what we did not create. Marriage certainly has a human component, but it has a divine design.

Like most things, if we do not understand an aspect of Catholic teaching, it is good to sincerely seek the authentic teaching rather than the stereotype that popular culture perpetuates. "The intimate community of life and love which constitute the married state has been established by the Creator and endowed by him with its own proper laws...God himself is the author of marriage...Marriage is not a purely human institution." (CCC1603)

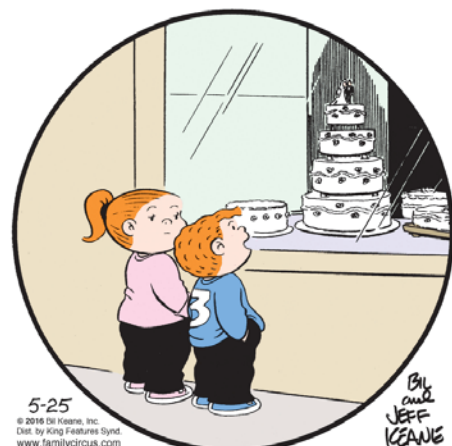

DEAR PADRE—June 5, 2016

Sick-call sets make wonderful wedding presents I take communion to shut-ins and wonder why, when someone is near death or the priest visits to anoint, a sick-call set is not set up.

Decades ago, we all got one as a wedding gift. When I'm in a parish, I make sure all of my extraordinary ministers take a sick-call (crucifix) set with them because many homes don't have them. According to the ritual for the Pastoral Care of the Sick (I.III.74), the Eucharist should be transported in a pyx that is kept in a burse. At the location (home), there should be a proper place for the Eucharist, usually a table with a linen cloth, candles, and possibly holy water. All these items are in the set. So, if time and location allow, this should still be done. However, it is not essential if the person is in danger of death or a sacred space cannot be set up (for example, on the side of the road). These sets are available for purchase; many Catholic supply stores have them. They make a wonderful wedding gift because they recognize that spouses intend to be together until death. The set can be used when one becomes ill or close to death. Unfortunately, many families do not attend Mass, so their preparation for receiving the Eucharist or being anointed is far from their minds. Their awareness of, and access to, such items now come from parish ministers. FR. DON WILLARD, CSsR sundaybulletin@liguori.org.

GOD'S PRESENCE—Realize above all that you are in God's presence . . . empty yourself completely and sit waiting, content with the grace of God, like a chick who tastes nothing and eats nothing but what its mother gives it.—St. Romuald

SMALL PLEASURES—Little things seem nothing, but they give peace, like those meadow flowers which individually seem odorless but all together perfume the air.—Georges Bernanos
