MARRIAGE MINUTE July 2, 2017 Have you embraced the mission of hospitality in your marriage? Welcoming others is part of our mission as a married couple because it allows others to see the love of Christ in our homes. Try: • Offering to babysit so married parents can attend an enrichment or single parents get a few hours of rest. • Inviting a family from a child's class or team to brunch after Mass. • Becoming the house where your teen's friends are always welcome. • Befriending an older couple whose grandchildren live far away or a younger couple who could use a mentor. • Considering foster care, which is hospitality to vulnerable children. For more ideas on ways to live the mission of your married life, go to joyfulmarriageproject.com.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION–It's Independence Day week, and there is a link worth tracing between the Declaration of Independence and the language of liturgy. One of the signers of the Declaration on that July 4 long ago was Charles Carroll, probably the wealthiest man in the colonies and one of the few Catholics on the political scene. As a flourish to his signature, he sought to distinguish himself from other prominent citizens bearing the same name by penning "Charles Carroll of Carrolltown"—a defiant "come and get me if you dare" postscript aimed at the British.

Carroll's brother John was a priest and patriot who in 1789 was given the task of organizing the Catholic Church in this country. By 1791 he had assembled a synod, or assembly of delegates, to launch that task formally. Archbishop Carroll wanted to gain acceptance of our faith by American people who mistrusted our customs and could not comprehend our liturgy. He made the amazing proposal to Rome that our liturgy should be prayed not in Latin, but in the vernacular, English. His wish was denied, but one hundred sixty years later, his deep desire helped the American bishops and scholars at the Second Vatican Council to win the vote in favor of the vernacular not just for the United States, but for the Church throughout the world.—Rev. DEAR PADRE JULY 2, 2017

If my fiancé and I abstain from sex, why can't we live together before we get married?

It seems to me there are two reasons living with your future spouse before marriage is not a good idea. One is that you are setting each other up for some serious temptations, or an "occasion of sin." It would be similar to putting a bottle of gin on the desk of an alcoholic or a carton of cigarettes in front of someone who has succeeded in giving up smoking. I'm not saying you have some sort of addiction, but the natural pull of sex is going to be particularly strong, especially when you're young, in love, and ready to commit to marriage. You will be free and even encouraged in marriage to pursue the greatest intimacy. But for the moment, it is asking too much to put you both in the same circumstances now that you will be in after you wed. The second reason for not living together before marriage is that the living situation could give scandal to others. If you are active in your church and vocal about practicing your Catholic faith but then start living with your future spouse before marriage, it can raise questions (and eyebrows) about what you really believe and how you're living your faith. There may be some good-sounding reasons for living together. You can cut down on costs, get to know your future spouse better, and so on. But these reasons aren't worth the risk. My advice is that you help each other live a virtuous life now, by sacrificing the convenience of living together outside of marriage, as the best practice for your life together in the sacrament of matrimony. Fr. Gary Lauenstein, CSSR

THE NEW PASTOR stood at the church door greeting parishioners as they left following his first Mass after being appointed by the bishop. The comments were generally welcoming, except for one man who said, "That was a very dull and boring homily, Father."

A few minutes later, the same man showed up in the line again and said, "Father, I don't think you gave much thought to what you had to say this morning."

Minutes later, the same man appeared again in the line, this time muttering, "You really blew it, Father."

Finally the priest could stand it no longer. He called the deacon over and asked who the man was.

"Him? Oh, that's Oliver. Don't let him bother you," said the deacon. "He's a little slow. All he does is repeat whatever he hears other people saying."
